

Shutterstock Announced as Official Photographer of the 2020 EE British Academy Film Awards

January 30, 2020 7:09 PM EST

Shutterstock's proprietary technology provides editorial images to customers around the world in less than one minute

NEW YORK, Jan. 30, 2020 /PRNewswire/ -- Shutterstock, Inc. (NYSE: SSTK), a leading global technology company offering a creative platform for high-quality content, tools and services, today announced that it has been renewed as the official photographer of the 2020 EE British Academy Film Awards, which recognizes the very best in film over the past year. As the official photographer of the show on Sunday, February 2nd, Shutterstock's on-site entertainment photographers, editors and engineering team will deliver exclusive high-quality images from the event at the Royal Albert Hall in London to the world in less than one minute from the image being taken.

Shutterstock's editorial team captures, edits and distributes celebrity portraits and candid images leveraging proprietary software optimized for speed to market. As the moments from the red carpet, inside the awards show, and at the after-parties are captured, Shutterstock's team makes lightning-fast crops and edits and transmits them directly to the desks of photo editors, writers and media. This speed-to-market empowers Shutterstock's editorial customers to keep up with today's fast news cycle to quickly deliver their news stories.

"We are pleased to continue our long-standing relationship with BAFTA, an arts charity whose purpose of celebrating and supporting the best work and talent in film, games and television is closely aligned with Shutterstock's," said Candice Murray, Vice President of Editorial at Shutterstock. "As a company whose passion is rooted in creativity, it is always an honor to be selected to shoot and share these unique moments recognizing the industry's top creatives from around the world at the BAFTAs."

"Shutterstock is best equipped to provide the world's media with high-quality images of our awards ceremonies and year-round program through their advanced creative platform," said Claire Rees, Photography Director for British Academy of Film and Television Arts. "Our partnership has grown over the years and as Shutterstock's technology and service continue to evolve, we continue to see greater results in amplifying the mission of BAFTA around the world."

Shutterstock's annual partnership with BAFTA, a world-leading independent arts charity, originated in 2013 and includes editorial photography coverage of the Television Craft Awards, Games Awards, Television Awards, Young Game Designers Competition, Scotland Awards, Cymru Awards and Children's Awards.
