Shutterstock Celebrates 40 Million Images in Its Collection

August 4, 2014

Company continues to build library of diverse images from around the globe

NEW YORK, Aug. 4, 2014 /PRNewswire/ -- Shutterstock, Inc. (NYSE: SSTK), a leading global provider of commercial digital imagery, today announced that it has reached 40 million images in its collection.

"Shutterstock's collection of 40 million images reinforces the growing and diverse demand for quality content by customers around the globe," said VP of Content Scott Braut. "Each day, we add tens of thousands of new and localized photos, illustrations and vectors from the Americas, Europe, Asia and beyond."

To celebrate this milestone, the award-winning Shutterstock Blog has curated a collection of "40 Images That Will Change Your Perception of Stock." The collection speaks to the power of imagery and provides a cross section of the exceptionally diverse content available from Shutterstock.

Shutterstock continues to be a top design destination for graphic designers, publishers, marketing and media organizations around the world, licensing 4 images per second. To see more, visit www.shutterstock.com.
