

Shutterstock Names Marty Brodbeck as Chief Technology Officer

NEW YORK – January 4, 2017 – Shutterstock, Inc. (NYSE: SSTK), a leading global provider of commercial digital imagery and music, announced today that Marty Brodbeck has joined the company as Chief Technology Officer.

"Marty brings decades of experience as a capable hands-on technology leader and a strategic thinker," said Shutterstock's Founder and CEO, Jon Oringer. "As we prepare Shutterstock for its next phase of growth, Marty's expertise, leadership skills, and unparalleled enthusiasm make him the right person to lead our technology organization."

Brodbeck most recently served as Chief Technology Officer at Sterling Talent Solutions, an industry-leading employment background-screening provider. At Sterling, he led a technology system overhaul, making the company cloud-enabled, which allowed for better integration with other cloud-based systems. Brodbeck previously held leadership roles with several global businesses, including Merrill Lynch, Pearson, Pfizer, and Diageo.

In this role, Brodbeck oversees the product engineering team as it develops and implements products that deliver leading edge solutions for customers.

"Shutterstock's expansion into the workflow market and its increasing strength in the editorial space brings new technological challenges and opportunities," said Brodbeck. "I am very excited to get started with the team to enable Shutterstock to make even greater strides in the years to come."

Brodbeck has an MS in Information Systems from Stevens Institute of Technology and a BA in Leadership Studies and Speech Communication from the University of Richmond.
