

Shutterstock Launches Visual Dashboard for Tabs

New Chrome Extension Delivers Inspiring Imagery and Search Functionality to the Browser

New York – December 8, 2015 – Shutterstock, Inc. (NYSE:SSTK), a leading global provider of commercial digital imagery and music, today announced the launch of Shutterstock Tab, a Chrome extension that brings calm and inspiration to daily browse activities. Every time a user opens a new tab, a stunning new image will appear, along with customized information about the time, weather, and recently visited sites.

Shutterstock Tab features hundreds of exquisite images curated from Shutterstock's collection of more than 65 million photos, vectors, and illustrations. Users can download the image displayed or explore others in the featured artists' collection by clicking on the artist's name. The new tab tool offers easy access for users to search the entire Shutterstock image collection from directly within their browser.

“At Shutterstock, we are committed to empowering the world's storytellers in every way possible,” said Catherine Ulrich, Shutterstock's Chief Product Officer. “Shutterstock Tab is a unique way to bring stunning visuals and inspiration to the browsing experience while positioning Shutterstock in the customer's workflow throughout the day. It's also a powerful promotional tool to elevate our contributors and their beautiful work.”

Shutterstock Tab was created during Shutterstock's annual hackathon, a company-wide event where employees team up to test new ideas and build innovative tools for customer and contributor success.
